“It was my privileged to see and work with Babu Jeebon Roy for the past 25 years. On several occasions both in public and private capacity we had to range ourselves in opposite sides with reference to questions of local interest, but it has, I must admit, seldom, if ever fallen to my lot to meet with an opponent who united in himself such considerable intellectual powers, such unfailing courtesy, such scrupulous honesty and such thorough earnestness. Though a pioneer of almost every industry of which the people of the district may now boast Babu Jeebon Roy never thought of connecting his name with any. Being a man of exceptionally unostentatious disposition he cared not at all for praise or for honours for whatever he achieved.”¹⁴

Indeed there are few religious books and pamphlets that have been published by our kind and philanthropic Missionaries for primary schools, etc., but there are no publications which may serve as general reading for the majority of our people.”

“In order to give work to those Khasi girls who have received some education and are willing to earn their own livelihood and who would not at the same time feel disposed to accept any kind of menial service, I propose to open a training Class where they will not only be taught in the art of printing gratis but will also receive a small allowance for their maintenance.”
